

TASK GUIDELINES

You are presented with around 30 English sentences and you are asked to post-edit the corresponding machine translation suggestions.

 You should carry out a light post-editing (e.g. for internal communication). In light post-editing you need to ensure that the correct information is conveyed while accepting a more relaxed standard of fluency and style. For this reason you should post-edit the MT suggestion by applying the minimal edits required to transform the system output into a fluent sentence with the same meaning as the source sentence:

- make only the necessary edits
- do not make “preferential” edits aimed to adjust the style
- no need for comments

 In particular, this task is focused on gender. The English source sentences contain references to one or more human entities whose gender is ambiguous. These must be translated either with feminine or masculine forms, according to some external information that will be provided to you (F or M, received via email from Translated, together with the links to the projects, see below).

IMPORTANT: In each sentence there are one or more human entities, and all the words referring to them must be translated with the same gender, in accordance with the given meta-information (F or M).

F: Both the doctor and the nurses reassured the patient about the success of the operation

Tanto la médica como las enfermeras tranquilizaron a la paciente sobre el éxito de la operación

 Please follow some additional guidelines:

- If the MT output contains non-gendered words, do not correct them into masculine or feminine forms
They were glad about the outcome of the research.
Se alegraron por el resultado de la investigación.
- When you are required to use feminine forms, please do it, even for more recent feminine professions that might sound uncommon

engineer → ingeniera
drum technician → técnica

- If you encounter proper names, do not use them to make gender inferences: always follow the meta-information (F/M)
F: Grimshaw was the RAE Project officer in 1961.
Grimshaw fue la oficial del Proyecto RAE en 1961.

TASK INSTRUCTIONS

To carry out the task, you will receive an email from Translated containing the links to two Matecat projects (around 15/20 sentences each)

- Just click on the provided links (no need to sign in into MateCat)
- Please complete both tasks in the given order (! choose the left link first the and then the right link)

Note that:

- “F” are those sentences where the words referring to the human entity(ies) must all be translated with feminine forms
- “M” are those sentences where the words referring to the human entity(ies) must all be translated with masculine forms

Each of you will deal with a slightly different number of sentences (between 30-35). Regardless, we have previously verified that 40 minutes is the appropriate amount of time required to complete the task (even the longer ones). As such, please carry out the translation task “as naturally as possible”, at your usual working pace, but without taking breaks.

You are in any case all required to remain online for the entire duration of the meeting (50 m).
